FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Lost Machine a novella written and illustrated by Richard A. Kirk

The Lost Machine is a new dark fantasy novella from Richard A. Kirk. Richard is well known as a visual artist & illustrator, having created images for clients such as Clive Barker, Caitlin R. Kiernan and the rock band Korn. The Lost Machine is his first published written work and of course it comes with illustrations.

The Lost Machine is a 108 page, perfect bound, 6" x 9" book. It contains 5 interior illustrations. Foreword by Mike Mignola, the creator of Hellboy. ISBN 978-0-9866535-0-6
Price $15.00

The Lost Machine will be available in late August 2010. It can be preordered by visiting www.richardakirk.com.

What Richard has succeeded in doing here is to draw a dark, strangely beautiful world—a world uniquely his own (which I would love to see more of by the way)... He has made his places real and his people breath.

Mike Mignola, award-winning creator/writer/artist of Hellboy

In a wasteland ravaged by plague, Lumsden Moss steps out of a decaying prison. Armed with a satchel of yellowed notebooks containing the fragile memories of five murdered children, he is determined to track down and confront their killer. Lumsden, accompanied by a stranger, begins a long journey to the vast City of Steps where he is forced to confront the horrors of the past and present.
